FARM BUREAU MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

At a special meeting of the Fulton County Farm Bureau held at the Court House in Wauseon Wednesday evening the members voted in favor of asking the Ohio Federation of Farm Bureaus to conduct a campaign for Farm Bureau members in Fulton County on the basis of ten dollars a year for three years.

Mr. George Cooley, farmer from Caydon County and director in the State Federation explained the plan of work of the State Federation, the need for more funds, the necessity for all farmers to organize in the county farm bureau, the state federation and the national federation in order to have the great industry of agriculture properly recognized. He also explained the plan of conducting the membership campaign by soliciting furnished by the State Federation. These solicitors to be actual farmers who are farm bureau members in other counties.

Mr. A. P. High, farmer from Crawford County, Ohio gave an enthusiastic address on the necessity of all farmers joining a properly financed farmers organization in order to look after the interests of agriculture and put it on a profitable basis. He stated that all other industries and classes of business are organized such as the hardware men, bankers, grocers, lumber dealers etc., and are paying from ten or twelve dollars up to a hundred dollars a year into their organization even the new boys of Cleveland have their union, their dues being 16c a month of $12.00 a year. This is more than the farmers have been in the habit of paying into their farm bureau. Agriculture is the greatest industry in the world and it is time those who are engaged in that industry wake up to the fact that it is necessary to have the interests of that industry looked after by proper representatives properly financed.

Representatives were present at the farm bureau meeting from every township except Gorham though there should have been a larger attendance to hear this important matter discussed. On first thought it would seem impossible to get a large membership on the basis of ten dollars a year but this has not proven in the contests that have already been conducted the campaign. In fact, practically all of the counties increased their membership at the old rate by 100 per cent more.

The Executive Committee of the Farm Bureau Monday evening August 16th to decide upon the time for conducting the campaign.

POULTRY CULLING DEMONSTRATIONS

Poultry culling demonstrations have been completed in each of the 12 townships in Fulton County. Mr. R. L. Dakan, poultry specialist of Ohio State University was in the county two days and conducted the demonstrations. The rest of the demonstrations were given by the county.

The total number of people attending the demonstrations was about 500. 200 different flocks were represented with a total of 29,000 hens. The poultry specialist said that on the average over 50 per cent of the hens are not profitable producers and should be culled out of the flock. He also stated that the hens which should be culled out of the flock, but are allowed to remain will cost us a dollar for feed before they begin to produce profitably. Taking these figures for a basis the culling demonstrations have been the means of saving $14,500 in feed to the people of Fulton County. The people of Fulton County are not far behind the dairy industry. If the flocks over the county average as large as those whose owners attended the demonstrations, there are not less than 350,000 hens now being kept in Fulton County. We can see then the importance of systematically culling from the flock of hens which are not laying.

When we receive a report of the 1920 census, it will undoubtedly show that the poultry industry in Fulton County is not far behind the dairy industry. If the flocks over the county average as large as those whose owners attended the demonstrations, there are not less than 350,000 hens now being kept in Fulton County. We can see then the importance of systematically culling from the flock of hens which are not laying.

The dairymen of Fulton County have given a great deal of attention to the improvement of their herds by eliminating the poor producers, the culling the heifers from the best cows in the herd and using better sires, but very little attention has been given to the improvement of our flocks of poultry in spite of the fact that improvement could be accomplished in the same way as with the dairy herd.

Any person who desires to cull the poor producers from their flock should obtain information in regard to culling from the County Agent or from some person who attended the demonstrations.

R. A. Cave, County Agent

WAUSEON DEFEATS DELTA—SCORE 8-3

SEN. HARDING MEETS HIS BROTHER EDITORS

The faith and support of the Republican newspapers of Ohio is pledged to Senator W. G. Harding by more than a party sense as a result of the demonstration of loyalty to him and his cause given last Friday when editors and representatives of the Republican state press gathered at Mahoning in testimony of their affection and fealty for a brother craftsman.

This was the thought that animated the newspaper gathering as Senator Harding spoke to its members from the front porch of his home. It was not so much a presidential nominee who was speaking but a fellow editor whose problems were their own and who had won a measurable success above the trials and difficulties of a common experience.

In another sense the tribute given Senator Harding by the Republican state press was an intimately personal one. All of those present knew him primarily as publisher of the Marion Star and for those of older years there was the bond of long association in a common endeavor. The glimmer of high place and the striving for lofty position was quite forgotten in an occasion in which equality and understanding and neighborliness were predominant.

This thought and feeling was voiced in a short address made by John E. Hopley of the Bucyrus Evening Telegraph, President of the Harding-for-President Newspapermen's Club of Ohio. The speaker recalled that in 1896 his father, on behalf of the Republican editors of Ohio had tendered their best wishes and congratulations to William McKinley at Canton.

A quarter of a century has passed since Mr. Hopley said, and that veteran editor's son, himself now almost a veteran on behalf of his colleagues, is here to wish you God-speed and success in the coming contest. He said that when he was a boy he found as we did in 1896, that Ohio had added another star to her presidential constellation and that new star will be our friend and colleague Warren G. Harding.

KLING-GHEPPEIT REUNION
The Kling-Gheppett family reunion was held last Sunday on South Park in Wauseon. One hundred and fifty adult members of these families were in attendance besides many children. Mr. Jacob Gheppett of this city is the president of this family association and he had made preparations for the event the result of which was that everybody in attendance had an enjoyable time and all were so well satisfied that the company voted to hold the reunion at Wauseon again next year and also re-elected Mr. Gheppett as president.

A sumptuous dinner was served on tables under the trees, a brief talk from P. E. Kenyon, recitations by two young ladies of the Klint family and the usual business transacted but above all was the opportunity to renew old friendships, enjoy the reminiscences of the past and look forward with hearts made stronger by association with friends and relatives to the future. Members of the families were present from adjoining counties also from various points in Southern Michigan.

BIERY-ANDREWS

At a very pretty home wedding, Miss Rosa Biery daughter of Professor and Mrs. C. J. Biery of Bowling Green and L. G. Andrews were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents in Bowling Green Saturday afternoon, August 14th. In the presence of the families of the bride and groom and a few personal friends, the marriage vows were pronounced and taken, Rev. Frank E. Kenyon a former pastor of the bride officiating. The bride carried a large bouquet of white roses and was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Biery; the groom's brother Howard Andrews acted as best man.

Miss Letha Edgar played the wedding march. Following the ceremony a delicious course dinner was served and the bride and groom left for a short honeymoon tour after which they will be at home in Pittsburgh where Mr. Andrews will pursue post graduate studies in the Carnegie School of Technology during the coming year.

Those who were present at the wedding from Wauseon were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Andrews, son Howard and daughters Gladys and Louise Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Kenyon, Miss Letha Edgar, Messrs. Irving Stevens and R. J. Bissonnette.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Andrews are graduates of Wauseon High School. Mrs. Andrews continued her studies at Chicago University, graduating from that institution and has been engaged in educational work in connection with the University since her graduation.

Lieutenant Andrews since his graduation from Wauseon High School has completed a course in Ohio State University besides teaching and service on the front lines in France with the American Expeditionary Forces where he was wounded.

Their many friends in Wauseon and vicinity wish Mr. and Mrs. Andrews a happy, prosperous and successful journey through the years together.

A MYSTERY

At about eleven o'clock last Monday night the burglar alarm at the Peoples State Bank suddenly began to ring and continued to ring for a space of about half an hour.

Mr. P. W. Moyer heard the alarm and inquired of "Central" in regard to the cause. "Central" replied that they had been trying to get some of the bank people by phone but had failed.

Mr. Moyer sallied forth from his home on Birch street to see if he could discover some trouble. Mr. Moyer said he proceeded very cautiously and discovered gathered about the bank Frank Leu the night watchman and about four others who had been aroused; there didn't seem to be any special excitement and Mr. Moyer retired from the scene. A careful search of the premises revealed no indications of even an attempted entrance and the ringing of the alarm remains a mystery until such time as an expert along the line of burglar alarms discovers the secret.

THE HEN THAT IS A "SWELL DRESSER" IS A POOR LAYER
"The hen that gets out the fashion plate in July and August and dresses up in a swell new winter costume is invariably a poor layer. The successful poultry raiser will cut out all hens that molt before September 1," says E. L. Dakan, poultry extension specialist, Ohio State University. Mr. Dakan last fall culled a flock of tramped hens, none of which he knew the yearly egg record. In comparing the tramped record it was found that in every instance the early molted was a poor layer.

Mr. Dakan says that culling the flock once a year and culling out the early molters. Hens with yellow legs in the fall have been poor layers; hens with shallow bodies and crew heads lack vigor and capacity for handling a large amount of food which is necessary for high egg production. It costs about twenty-five cents a month to feed a hen and all poor ones should be culled as soon as they quit laying which is in July and August.

All farmers should learn to cull their poultry, says Mr. Dakan and the University will give assistance. Farmers should ask their county agent for dates for culling demonstrations.
